

Saniset Fleet works as Green Energy consultants for Hollywood (and beyond!).

We aim to decarbonize entertainment through education and equipment procurement, and to show the industry what is possible to accomplish through Green Energy.

Through our equipment procurement, we have vetted hundreds of different green energy solutions, which has allowed us to procure the best products for productions, and to help productions meet their sustainability goals. While we do not consider ourselves a leasing company, we currently lease out different products to aid in their overall adoption and education, for a greener industry as a whole.

Some of our fleet includes electric passenger vans, electric cargo vans, portable battery systems, and an electric generator called the CleanGen J250 that can replace the portable diesel generator on productions.

We have also procured portable electric vehicle charging solutions, for productions that may not have fixed charging infrastructures in place.

Whether you are looking to rent or purchase green energy solutions for your next production, Saniset Fleet has you covered. Our products also offer telematic data, to help meet ESG requirements.

We can all work together to help Hollywood to go green and decarbonize the industry.
