TO THE PUBLICISTS OF IATSE LOCAL NO. 600

Dear Sister, Brothers and Kin:

The industry has suffered significantly due to recent labor strife. As we recover, we are reminded that our solidarity will carry the day. For 130 years together we have endured events and challenges and met them head on. You are an integral part of that history, and the solidarity that carries us through. It is the spirit and commitment of the members of the Publicists of the International Cinematographers Guild, IATSE Local 600 and our members everywhere that will pave the way to a successful and prosperous future.

Congratulations to all the nominees and winners. Be safe and be well.

Baird Steptoe Letter

I marvel at the ingenuity of our Local 600 publicists. In a year with dual strikes, publicists had to think on their feet and create entirely new publicity campaigns, all without the aid of writers or actors to help promote the work. Even with one hand tied behind their backs, the publicists of this union were able to get their messaging across to the intended audiences and we were able to learn more about the work our union kin put into the films and television projects represented at the 61st Annual ICG Publicists Awards.

With the SAG-AFTRA and WGA strikes behind us and our own IATSE Hollywood Locals Basic Agreement negotiations about to begin, let us not forget the spirit of solidarity that lifted this industry this past year. Together, we are stronger.

You should all be very proud of the work represented at this awards luncheon.

In solidarity,

Baird B Steptoe

Patrick Stewart

2024 Television Showperson of the Year Award

Patrick Stewart is a distinguished stage and screen actor whose incredible career spans nearly six decades. He is a three-time Olivier Award winner and a Tony Award nominee for his legendary stage work, and has received multiple Emmy, Golden Globe, and SAG Award nominations for his work across television and film.

Recently, Stewart published his long-awaited memoir, Making It So, which details his life from his earliest days in Yorkshire, England through the present, in what is a revealing look at his life and legendary career. The memoir was named an Instant New York Times Best Seller in the US as well as on The Sunday Times (UK)'s Bestsellers list. It was published in October 2023 by Gallery Books, a division of Simon & Schuster. The companion audiobook, read by Stewart, was named one of the year's best celebrity memoir recordings by Audible.

Onscreen, Stewart most recently reprised his iconic role of 'Jean Luc Picard' in the record-breaking, global hit Paramount+ series, Star Trek: Picard, which ended its third and final season in April 2023. He memorably portrayed 'Picard' for seven seasons on the groundbreaking drama series, Star Trek: The Next Generation, as well as in the film installments of the franchise, beginning with Star Trek Generations in 1994 and its sequels.

One of his most recent film triumphs came in 2017 when Stewart starred in the critically-acclaimed, worldwide smash hit feature film, Logan, a thrilling reinvention of the superhero genre with Stewart starring as 'Charles Xavier/Professor X' opposite Hugh Jackman's 'Logan/Wolverine'. His performance received a Critics Choice Award nomination for 'Best Supporting Actor'. The film, based on characters made famous in the X-Men Saga film franchise, premiered at the Berlin Film Festival. Logan marked Stewart's seventh time portraying the 'Charles Xavier/Professor X' character, beginning in 2000 with the original X-Men film and its many hit sequels.

For television, he received both Golden Globe and Critics Choice Award nominations for his starring role on the Starz comedy Blunt Talk, which he produced and starred in as 'Walter Blunt', a British import intent on conquering the world of American cable news. The half-hour dark comedy was executive produced by Seth MacFarlane and Jonathan Ames.

His many, diverse screen credits include Jeremy Saulnier's Green Room; Damian Harris' Wilde Wedding; the narrator in Seth MacFarlane's Ted and Ted 2; Merlin in Joe Cornish's The King Who Would Be King; Match; The King of Texas; Jeffrey; Dune; Coda; Excalibur; Steve Martin's L.A. Story; Robin Hood: Men in Tights; Conspiracy Theory; The Lion in Winter (Emmy and Golden Globe nominations); I, Claudius; Moby Dick (Emmy and Golden Globe nominations); Hamlet (Golden Globe nomination); Tinker Tailor Soldier Spy; Ricky Gervais' Extras (Emmy nomination); and inspired voice work on Seth MacFarlane's animated hits Family Guy and American Dad, plus films such as The Prince of Egypt, Chicken Little, and Jimmy Neutron: Boy Genius, among countless others.

Notably, his voice work was recognized with a 1995 Grammy Award for 'Best Spoken Word Album for Children' for the English-language recording of Sergei Prokofiev's Peter and the Wolf.

For his legendary stage work, Stewart has been honored with three Olivier Awards, the first of which came in 1979 for his performance in Peter Brook's production of Antony and Cleopatra, which also marked the start of his unprecedented run with the Royal Shakespeare Company (RSC), where he'd go on to appear in over 60 productions, including his Olivier-winning performance as 'Claudius' in Hamlet opposite David Tennant. He now serves as an Honorary Associate Artist of the RSC in recognition of his indelible contributions to the theater stalwart.

In December 2019, Stewart remounted his Olivier Award-winning solo stage show, A Christmas Carol, which he adapted himself and in which he portrays over 40 characters. He has performed the piece frequently since its debut in 1991, including on Broadway and in London; with the 2019 installment serving as his first time performing the piece in seventeen years, this time as a benefit production for City Harvest and Ars Nova.

Stewart's other countless Broadway and West End appearances include his Tony-nominated and Evening Standard Award-winning performance as the title character in Macbeth, directed by Rupert Goold in a production that played London's West End, at the Brooklyn Academy of Music (BAM), and on Broadway; his work opposite Ian McKellen in repertory productions of Harold Pinter's No Man's Land and Samuel Beckett's Waiting for Godot; plus The Caretaker; A Life in the Theatre; The Master Builder; The Ride Down Mt. Morgan; A Midsummer Night's Dream; The Merchant in Venice (Olivier nomination); Edward Albee's Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?; Twelfth Night; Bingo; Scenes of Money and Death; and The Tempest.

In the 2001 New Years' Honours list, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth conferred on Patrick the order of the Officer of the British Empire (O.B.E.), and in 2010 Patrick received a knighthood for his services to Drama. In March of 2017, Stewart was honored with the Empire Legend Award for his outstanding career achievements at the Empire Awards in London.

Karen Chamberlain

2023 Les Mason Award for Career Achievement in Publicity Winner

By Karen Chamberlain

When I learned I was nominated for the Les Mason Award for Career Achievement in Publicity, I have to say, I was speechless. Unusual for someone who makes her living with words, but it was truly the most unexpected honor. Of course, when I saw the ballot and the impressive roster of venerable publicists I would be considered with, I was certain there was no way my name would be called, or that I would be on that stage. And then Sharon Black walked out...

I've been a publicity staff writer at Warner Bros. Pictures for more than 15 years now, and I owe it all to Sharon, an absolute legend in our field, for taking a chance on a relatively untried, fairly unproven writer whose only comparable samples were from a completely different industry. Up till then, I'd held various positions at WB over several years in L.A. and New York, none of them as a writer, most of them administrative, three of them at DC Comics. I'd been connected enough to know what the press notes and so forth looked like, but that was a home office position, and I was still in NYC. "Work from home" was a term reserved solely for freelancers back then, and

I'd done that, and a few other things, as well.

When I learned that WB Publicity's Written Communications team had an opening, I quickly applied. I had been thinking about moving back home to Southern California to be closer to my family. I was already at a professional crossroads, and I knew this would be the ideal job for me, the job I would move for. I was also definitely ready to have a car again and stop lugging groceries and everything else home several blocks and up several flights! Over the summer, I did everything I could to mentally manifest this opportunity into a reality. Somehow, the universe was listening.

Thanks to Sharon and Lisa Jarahian, I learned from the best. Lisa, who in addition to being kind, generous and funny as hell, is an extraordinary writer (though if you know Lisa, you also know she'd never admit any of it). I've had the privilege to work with the best publicity, marketing and distribution teams in the business, and to work on some of the most exciting release and awards campaigns of our time, including the Maxwell Weinberg-winning Joker. I've crafted press materials, strategic language, talking points, speeches, presentations and much more, conducted interviews with our filmmakers and talent and escorted them on red carpets, and even stepped onto a set or two on our historic lot. I've also been lucky enough to work closely with many of the best unit publicists, who make it possible for me to do what I do, and probably most of the personal publicists out there—without their support, nothing I write would make it out into the world. I thank each and every one of them for their partnership, past, present and future.

Like most of us, my favorite parts of this job have changed many times over the years. But what's never altered is how lucky I feel to do what I do, in the industry I love, with people who are more like friends and family than coworkers. So many of them were in the room that day when I took the stage, including my current teammate, brilliant writer and multi-talented publicist David Ferguson. And I wasn't joking when I said that I hadn't written anything for myself last year—I was winging it, I really didn't expect to be up there. But isn't that the job of a publicist? We are the ones putting forth others, the ones behind the scenes making sure the publicity engine runs smoothly, putting out the fires or, in my case, putting down the words that others will read or say. As people who spend most of our time in service of others, from audiences to talent and beyond, I love that we can come together once a year to celebrate what we do. May we all have many more years to come doing the work we were meant to, be the screens big or small!

Sara Hull

2023 Publicist of the Year Award Winner

By Sara Hull

I believe as publicists, our first job is to be the biggest fans of whatever or whoever we are promoting. Therefore, you must truly love what you do and who you work for. I love movies and I especially love working on movies that allow people to escape or see the world in a better way. I also love Disney and I love working at The Walt Disney Company on projects that become a resolute part of our lives. Watching kids and adults alike, embrace and fall in love with these films is reward enough but winning Publicist of the Year made me realize it's also okay to celebrate the hard work I've done.

Part of the job of a publicist is to help others win awards. From the very start of my career at 42West, then to Searchlight,

“Big Fox” and finally Disney, awards have always been a part of my life. From the Oscars to the Emmys and everything in between, we plan and campaign to drive someone else to their win while we scream and cry in the shadows. There is a rush of satisfaction that your blood, sweat and literal tears paid off but to be nominated for an award myself and better yet to WIN that award is something I was not prepared for.

I didn't realize how much winning Publicist of the Year would mean to me until I was sitting at the table with my mother to my left and my best friend Shelby Kimlick to my right as previous Publicist of the Year winner (and my friend and colleague) Marshall Weinbaum took the stage to present. To my surprise and complete shock, he introduced Joe Mazzello to the stage to finish presenting the award to me. Having Joe there was not something I expected at all but to have someone I worked so closely with (during a bit of a crazy time), someone who knew first-hand what kind of publicist I was and could speak so beautifully about my life's work meant everything to me.

Walking up on stage past the amazing publicists I've been in the trenches with throughout the years, standing in front of the blinding lights and hearing my voice echo over the microphone was enough to bring me to my knees. However, something inside of me knew I deserved to be there and that it was okay for me to accept the biggest “Thank You” for all my years of dedication to this industry.

2023 turned out to be a pretty great year for me overall as I also got engaged to my wonderful boyfriend and I was promoted at Disney. Pixie Dust aside, this was the year where I saw how my passion, dedication and a few late nights and weekends (okay maybe more than a few) can lead to astounding things. Being a publicist is exhausting and a sometimes-selfless job but I'm forever in awe of this union so THANK YOU once again for the recognition and confidence to keep making my dreams come true!

James Ferrera

2023 Bob Yeager Award for Community Service Recipient

By James Ferrera

When I was in kindergarten, there was a fad among my schoolmates of creating crochet chains. Crochet is a craft that is often mistaken for knitting but uses a single hook instead of a pair of needles. The chain stitch in crochet is the most basic, the foundation on which all projects begin. At the age of 5, we didn't know how to build on that foundation, and frankly, we didn't care. We wielded multi-colored aluminum hooks and happily chained along at recess to see who could make the longest one before the bell rang.

Eventually, the crochet chains were forgotten, replaced by other crafts and interests through the years, until I needed a cotton anniversary present for my husband in 2012. A story about a knitting artist who made large-scale animal sculptures triggered the memory of those kindergarten crochet chains, and I thought, "I can do that." I was on location in Pittsburgh, where I found a local fiber store. Newly outfitted with cotton yarn and a hook, I settled in to make him an amigurumi owl. I didn't plan to continue after I finished, but the rhythm of crochet is meditative. The repetitive motion helps keep the mind focused and releases serotonin, reducing anxiety. I decided to stick with it.

In May of 2017, I was in Romania, working on New Line Cinema's The Nun, where I met a tiny kitten who would eventually be known as "Pookie" and become my best friend in the world.

Our basecamp was in a field under the shadow of Bethlen Castle in Criș, a small village in the historic region of Transylvania. Pookie was a tiny feral with a giant personality who charmed both cast and crew for affection ... and scraps of food. We bonded right away ... definitely love at first sight! I brought him nutritious cat food from the pet store in town and sat with him for hours as I worked on a camp stool in the grass. When the day came to move the company back to Bucharest, I reluctantly left Pookie behind.

For three days, all I could think of was the little ginger cat I'd left in that field. A friend suggested I go back and find Pookie and adopt him; she said it wasn't that hard to bring a cat to America. The following morning, I made the 5-hour drive to Criș. As I pulled into town, I got a call that our strike crew, who knew I wanted to rescue him, had gone out looking, found him, and loaded him on their truck back to the studio already. I was so happy I didn't care about spending 10 hours on the road!

So... what the heck does this all have to do with the Bob Yeager Award for Community Service? Why am I writing about kindergarten crochet and Transylvanian cats? Because these are the divergent paths that led me to found Pookie Helps.

Not long after I brought Pookie home, I decided to crochet a market bag. The bags are small enough that I can take them with me and easily work on them anywhere. So, I made a few. Then I made a few more. Soon I had large pile of market bags on the couch in my office. I didn't know what to do with them, but I kept making more. The pile of bags grew. I had to do something. My mother suggested selling them. At first, I dismissed the idea, but then I realized she was onto something. I decided to sell them and donate the money to help animals who were like Pookie.

I started an Instagram account to post bags for sale and called it @PookieHelps. I branded the market bags, Pookie Bags (I also crochet small Pookie Bowls). 100% of the sale of every Pookie Bag and Pookie Bowl is donated to local animal rescue organizations such as Pasadena Humane (pasadenahumane.org), Zazzy Cats Kitty Rescue (zazzycats.org), Sante d'Or Foundation (santedor.org) and The Cat Posse (catposse.org). Pookie Helps has also donated to support rescues and adoptions in Ukraine, Croatia, and Romania.

Who knew the foundation chain that started in kindergarten would turn into something that could help save an animal in distress?

Many rescue organizations are volunteer-staffed and virtually all of them are overwhelmed by the demand that exists in so many communities. Every day, animals are abused, dumped, abandoned, and neglected. Trap-Neuter-Release (TNR) volunteers, animal foster caregivers, the network of veterinarians who work with non-profits and individuals to give sliding-scale, low-cost and no-fee services to those in need, animal shelters and the fundraisers who work tirelessly to keep their doors open, these are among the great unsung heroes of our community.

I have been honored to receive the 2023 Bob Yeager Award for Community Service, but it belongs, in spirit, to all the caregivers and loving pet owners who contribute to a better world for our animal companions. I thank the Local 600 ICG Publicists and all my friends in the Entertainment Industry who have helped me support a happy, safe, and loving life for animals through Pookie Helps.

I encourage anyone with the means to consider animal fostering. The impact in saving a life is immediate and rewarding.

Andy Reyes

2023 Press Award Winner

By Andy Reyes

What an honor it was to receive the 2023 Press Award from ICG Local 600. It truly is not lost on me who all it was that recognized me with this award and all I can say is Thank You. It goes without saying that we, as press, can't effectively do what we do without the many publicists working behind the scenes doing the daily song-and-dance with us that it takes to collaborate and bring all those plentiful creative ideas to life. It truly is a privilege to work at Entertainment Tonight and I am so beyond grateful of everyone – from my industry partners, to my husband and family that put up with demands this industry requires – that has had a hand in assisting me bring the engaging content we do to our audience. I certainly don't do this alone – I have a fabulous team at ET who I get to work with day in and day out to really help make the magic happen. There are so many mentors to also thank who helped me along the way: from past role models in Eliza Cost and Bonnie Tiegel, to my present-day Executives in Erin Johnson, Whitney Wallace and Leslie Kawaguchi. So many brilliant, creative and smart women who I have appreciated learning from, who push me to excel every day and who support the very things we all work so hard for year round. Thank you to everyone, and I hope this award serves as a symbol of not only all the great work of the past but that which is yet to come.

Yong Chavez

2023 International Media Award Winner

By Yong Chavez

When I was announced as the winner of the 2023 International Media Award, I froze then began my shocked walk to the stage. Watching the footage later, I laughed at how long it took me to reach the podium. It seemed endless. But I guess it was apropos with each step representing the years of hard labor it took to be heard and seen.

I learned what it takes to be an international journalist of color in Hollywood in 2011 at my first major-awards coverage. I was so grateful when my credentials was approved after years of applying that I didn't even flinch when I saw my spot at the very end of the long press line. Back then I didn't know that it meant that most of the talents won't stop for us, that people would dismiss us so casually. Despite that, I called it a win because some Filipino talents attended, and I was there to bear witness. That has always been my priority, to let them know that someone was documenting their big and small wins, especially at the time when Asian representation was slim to non-existent.

But this time, this award gave me the spotlight. I was the first of my kind, and I was gifted this once-in-a-lifetime chance to talk about the struggles of international journalists. My own impossible journey from the dirt roads of San Antonio, San Pascual, Batangas, Philippines to Hollywood.

I wish I could tell you that things magically improved for us after my speech. It's still an uphill climb. But the award made me hopeful. I know we have strong champions - we have publicists who fight for us and alongside us.

Maraming salamat, mga Kapamilya. Maraming salamat po sa inyong lahat.
(My profound thanks to everyone.)

By Hilary Bronwyn Gayle, SMPSP

What inspires me most as a unit photographer is that we are an active part of a living art form, and I believe it is that presence that technologies like A.I. won't be able to replicate or replace. The filmmaking process is a collaborative effort and being a part of that collective creativity allows me to capture moments that embody the humanity of the story.

2024 Awards Program / Directory Dedication to Reba Merrill

By Reba Merrill

At 37, I was a wife and mother who did commercials on the side. Tired of saying dumb words, I decided that I wanted to take responsibility for what came out of my mouth and to do that, I needed a talk show.

It took quite a while, but in 1974 I landed a once a week show, called Reba on the ABC station in Phoenix. I was deliriously happy because all my life, I wanted to act and now I could. In 1980, my TV career was over as my age got in the way (45), even though I had just won an Emmy. I felt there was more for me to do so at 47, I arrived in Los Angeles knowing only one person in the business. After a few false starts, non-payment for work and a Me Too moment, I was introduced to Andy Kuehn who opened my world to Hollywood. In 1988, there were only five nominated films and I worked on two of them: the one that won was Rain Man. I was invited to join the Academy in 1992. In 2014, the Academy acquired the Reba Merrill collection with all of my surviving footage for their archives.

I have come a long way from Phoenix with lots of hills and valleys to travel. I was able to grab the brass ring with the support of publicists, studio executives, family and friends and I am forever grateful. This has been the best 52 years of my life, working in the entertainment business.
